School board appoints first Mi'kmaq rep

EDUCATION The Halifax Regional School Board made education history yesterday by appointing its first Mi'kmaq representative.

Kirk Arsenault, a well-known business owner and advocate for the Mi'kmaq, is the first to be appointed after amendments made to the Education Act in 2009 called for Mi'kmaq representation on all school boards.

"This role provides me with an opportunity to act as a voice for the Mi'kmaq community in HRM, especially our students and their families," said Arsenault in a release.

Arsenault will be sworn on to the Board by Daniel Paul, who has been awarded the orders of Canada and Nova Scotia and is well known in the Mi'kmaq community for his contributions to the province, a release said.

Fogged out

RYAN TAPLIN/METRO HALIFAX

Sailors from HMCS Halifax and local Sea Cadets fire off salvos as the Royal Navy's aircraft carrier HMS Ark Royal passes by the Point Pleasant Park Bonaventure Memorial yesterday morning. Unfortunately, due to the fog the ship couldn't be seen from the park as it passed by. The Ark Royal is visiting Halifax as part of the International Fleet Review taking place this week. Smuggling suspected

Duo charged after Eastern Europeans land in Shelburne

ALEX BOUTILIER
for Metro Halifax

Police have laid charges against two Ukrainian nationals they say were attempting to smuggle Eastern Europeans into Nova Scotia.

Vasyl Aksenin, 26, And Mykola Tyshkivskyy, 46, were charged with organizing the illegal entry of persons into Canada yesterday.

Aksenin and Tyshkivskyy were aboard the ship Valletta, which was picked up by the Coast Guard ship Earl Grey on the evening of June 19. The Valletta was escorted into Shelburne, where RCMP conducted a search of the ship. The search turned up eight Eastern European passengers — five women and three men — in addition to the two accused.

It is believed that the individuals on the vessel paid a significant amount of money to come to Canada, said Staff Sgt. Alan Harding.

Police are releasing few other details.

They won't say the nationality of the passengers, who owns the vessel, or why the Earl Grey was tasked with intercepting the ship.

"That is part of our ongoing investigation," said Harding.

"All of the individuals were in good health, and that's obviously one of our main concerns."
Andrew LeFrank, Canada Border Services

Andrew LeFrank, district director for Canada Border Services, said all of the passengers were in good health when police found them.

"All of the individuals were in good health, and that's obviously one of our main concerns," said LeFrank.

LeFrank said he could not say where the passengers were as of yesterday.

"I can't speak to exactly where those individuals are, but I can tell you that we have completed processing the eight that have been seeking to come in to Canada," said LeFrank. He added the passengers will be assessed on an individual basis as to whether they'll be admitted or sent back to Europe.

Aksenin and Tyshkivskyy have been remanded into custody until their next court date. If convicted, they could face a maximum $500,000 fee and up to 10 years in prison.

Baptism of Membertou set to be re-enacted in Port Royal ANNIVERSARY A significant event in Canadian aboriginal history will be marked today, with a colourful re-enactment of the baptism 400 years ago of Mi'kmaq Grand Chief Henri Membertou.

It was on June 24, 1610, that Membertou and 20 members of his family were among the first natives in the New World to accept Christianity and the Roman Catholic Church.

The anniversary of Membertou's baptism is billed by the Nova Scotia government as a major cultural milestone, but not everyone sees it as a legacy worth celebrating.

Native historian Daniel Paul said although he sees Membertou as a great leader, Paul said his motives for accepting Christianity were far more pragmatic than simply wanting to be nice to the French.

"It was an effort to form an alliance that would ensure their (Mi'kmaq) survival," said Paul.

Event organizers say the friendship initiated by Membertou has had lasting effects, including through marital ties and the adoption of French names in baptism.

The re-enactment at Port-Royal opens Membertou 400, a five-day celebration of Mi'kmaq culture that will include a powwow on the Halifax Common.

Organizers have erected a traditional village that will be visited by the Queen on Monday.

Accounts committee remains at impasse

Heated discussions on aggrieved agenda changes end with no solution

ALEX BOUTILIER
for Metro Halifax

After a relatively quiet meeting on mental health, the province's Public Accounts committee once again spiralled into bickering yesterday.

The committee convened yesterday morning to discuss the findings of Auditor General Jacques Lapointe's audit into mental health care services. After two hours of questioning bureaucrats from the Department of Health, the committee turned to agenda matters.

But when Cape Breton North MLA Cecil Clarke attempted to read a letter from committee chair Diana Whalen into record, things became heated.

The letter, addressed to Speaker Charlie Parker, detailed grievances stemming from a June 9 meeting in which a surprise NDP motion cancelled testimonies from Nova Scotia Gaming Corporation executives scheduled for the following week.

"This is clearly a case where the work of the legislature is being obstructed," read Clarke, who stormed out of the June 9 meeting in protest. "This is an affront to the efficiency and effectiveness of the House of Assembly ... it has diminished the intended scope and power of this committee."

Clarke then brought forward a motion to formalize what he called an informal consensus between the three party leaders, who met Tuesday in hopes of resolving the Public Accounts impasse.

Clarke's motion would re-establish the subcommittee responsible for setting Public Accounts agenda, as well as prohibit voting to change the agenda without a consensus of the entire committee.

But the NDP's Leonard Preyra, deputy chair of the committee, said no parliamentary system would allow a subcommittee to dictate the agenda of a committee.

Any item that's recommended by a subcommittee is just that: A recommendation, said Preyra. There's no agreement in the world that can change that ... it is a well-established principle of parliamentary government, he said.

After almost an hour of back and forth, Cumberland South MLA Murray Scott made a motion to adjourn, putting the committee almost exactly where it was two weeks ago.

Liberals hold meet and greet for new MLAs

LEGISLATURE Nova Scotia's newest MLAs did not waste time scheduling their first photo op.

Zach Churchill and Geoff MacLellan were on hand at the Liberal caucus headquarters in Halifax yesterday afternoon for a meet and greet with media representatives and party operatives.

MacLellan won Tuesday's byelection in Glace Bay with a decisive 54 per cent of the vote. Churchill came out on top with equally impressive numbers, with 50 per cent of voters in Yarmouth behind him.

The victories bring the number of Liberal seats in the legislature up to 12.

Liberal Leader Stephen McNeil said the party is thrilled to welcome two more MLAs to the fold.

"Adding both Geoff and Zach to our caucus is an endorsement of the tremendous work they've been doing in their ridings and their communities," said Liberal Leader Stephen McNeil. "We're thrilled to have them here to go forward."

Women's shelters, transition houses to get $500K

FUNDING The Nova Scotia government is increasing its funding to 18 transition houses and women's centres by $500,000 a year.

The government says it's the first time funding has been increased in 10 years for women's centres, while transition houses haven't received more money for their operational needs in more than a decade.

The money is going to organizations that help women and their children who experience violence and abuse.

The eight women's centres will get $27,778 more per year. Seven of the nine transition homes in the province and the Naomi Society housing organization will receive another $21,197 a year.

Bryony House in Halifax will receive an increase of $75,000, which the government says reflects the size of its operation. Cape Breton Transition House will receive an increase of $33,197.

The Canadian Union of Public Employees said the extra funding is welcome, but it's not enough to address problems facing the homes.

The amount given to each agency, averaged out, "doesn't even cover one salary for a year," said president Danny Cavanagh, whose union represents workers at five transition houses.

Ships gathering for Fleet Review

ALY THOMSON
for Metro Halifax

EVENT International ships are starting to arrive in Halifax Harbour for the International Fleet Review.

More than 5,000 sailors representing eight countries — Canada, Brazil, Denmark, France, Germany, Great Britain, the Netherlands and the United States — will salute Canada's navy over the week-long event starting tomorrow.

The official review will take place Tuesday as ships take formation in the Halifax Harbour and Bedford Basin in recognition and respect for Canada's 100-year-old navy.

On Tuesday, Queen Elizabeth II and the Duke of Edinburgh will inspect the ships on board the HMCS St. John's.

Navy Capt. John Newton said having the Queen on hand for the event is incredibility significant.

"It is an incredible honour to have this bestowed upon us," said Newton. "We all will benefit from this great moment in Canadian history."

Newton said small security patrol boats have been practising their trade in the harbour over the past few weeks in preparation for the international gathering.

"We had to up our game to enforce protection," said Newton.

Small spectator boats will be permitted to watch the ceremony from the basin and the harbour, but will be required to stay in designated areas and keep at least 300 yards from the vessels, Newton said.

The controlled-access zone will be in affect through the week's events, he added.

On days that require the most activity, there will be up to 23 patrol boats in the water.

Newton said the event has a price tag of around $1 million, half of which is invested in the official event venue, the Naval Centennial Village, paid for entirely by sponsors.

The festivities start Friday with a Department of National Defence family appreciation day, and ship tours start Saturday on the Halifax Harbour.

The last major fleet assembly in Halifax took place in 1985.

What to look forward to

- Tomorrow, 9 a.m.: A mini-World Cup will be played by the visiting sailors at the St. Mary's University Fieldhouse.
- Saturday-Sunday, 10 a.m.-4 p.m.: Ships are open to the public for tours.
- Saturday-Thursday, noon-6 p.m.: The Naval Centennial Village will be open and offer exhibits, ship models and the Alexander Keith's International Pub.
- Monday: The ships will proceed to International Fleet Review Anchorage in the Bedford Basin.
- Tuesday, 2-4p.m.: The International Fleet Review
- Wednesday-Thursday, 10a.m.-4p.m: Ships are open to the public for tours.
- Friday, July 2: Ships depart.

Air show may take off from province

Construction has organizers looking elsewhere for '11

JENNIFER TAPLIN
jennifer.taplin@metronews.ca

They might have to drop the "Nova Scotia" from the Nova Scotia International Air Show.

The air show is all set for Shearwater this year, but organizers are looking elsewhere for the 2011 show.

Tony Goode, chair of the NSIAS board, said ongoing construction projects at both Shearwater and Halifax Stanfield International Airport left the air show in a pickle.

The show was cancelled in 2007, bashed by a major storm in 2008, and last year it was held in Yarmouth.

"We've concluded that it would be better not to utilize the airport at this stage of the game. That's not to say it wouldn't be in consideration in the future," he said.

The board is looking at a number of locations and Goode mentioned both New Brunswick and P.E.I. as options.

This year it's returning home to Shearwater, but Goode said it's a one-off thing.

"We'd be delighted to come back to Shearwater, but we don't want to overstay our welcome," Goode said.

Col. Sam Michaud, wing commander at 12 Wing Shearwater, said it makes sense for the air show to return to Shearwater because 2010 is not only the 100th anniversary of the Canadian navy, but the 65th anniversary of naval aviation in Canada.

"From a military perspective, it will be much, much more than an air show. We expect to see participation from the navy and army," he said.

"It gives Canadians a chance to come out and connect with their military and the men and women who serve around the world in places like Afghanistan and Haiti."

The big draws this year (Sept. 11-12) are a first appearance by a U.S. F-18 Super Hornet, the first flight of a Fairey Firefly since being restored, and of course, the Snowbirds.

Scotiabank StartRight® helps newcomers feel at home

Piyu Singh, 41, taught grades 11 and 12 in Delhi and her husband Vishwanath 45, was in the garment export business. They immigrated to Canada to experience a new culture.

The Singhs landed in Canada in February last year and celebrated their first Holi, the Indian festival celebrated with color, in Vancouver.

"It was the quietest Holi of my life," laughs Vishwanath, known to everyone as Vishy. "There was not much happening around us, but we have friends in Surrey, and it was nice to celebrate with them. We called home and spoke to family and friends."

"Our kids really missed all the Holi fun," adds Piyu."The gulal, the balloons filled with coloured water, the pichkaris (water pistols)… It made us nostalgic about the home we had left behind to settle in Canada".

Open a Scotiabank account even before you take off!

Vishy credits Pankaj Mehra, Director, India and South Asian Markets, with smoothening their move.

The Singhs were introduced to banking in Canada before they even set foot on Canadian soil. "We met Pankaj at a seminar he conducted in Delhi for new immigrants. He was friendly and explained things in detail. Before we left Delhi, we received e-mails from Pankaj and Harinder Virk, the Branch Manager at Fraser and 49th in Vancouver. Sorting out something as important as banking while still in India was hugely reassuring. On arrival in Vancouver, there were e-mails directing us to the closest branch. This was a big help at a time when we would otherwise have been a bit shaky and unsure".

"For brand new arrivals, the feeling that you know someone at the bank is comforting. It is like landing in Canada and meeting a friend. The welcome was very warm, very genuine."

Besides its five branches in India, Scotiabank has a strategic alliance with HDFC Bank, which enables new immigrants to open an account in Canada – even before they have boarded the plane!

They can fill out an application, apply for VISA cards, etc., and these are couriered to Canada, where their bank accounts are set up. A welcome kit is mailed out to the clients or, if their arrival is imminent, an e-mail detailing how to remit funds is sent out so everything is in place.

StartRight® keeps pace with your changing needs.

"Scotiabank offers a comprehensive StartRight® Program for newcomers to Canada," says Rania Llewellyn, Vice-President, Multicultural Banking. "It was created after a lot of research and is an innovative program, tailor-made for newcomers".

"I recommend StartRight to others who are in the process of immigrating. I tell everyone we are StartRight customers for life!" says Vishy.

Their children, Ridhav, 14, and Yoshita, 11, have settled in well. Yoshita in grade 6 has her own group of friends which includes a Filipino, a Mexican and a Fijian. "Both of them are the junior multicultural minded immigrants!" says Vishy.

The Singhs are full of optimism. A year ago, while Vishy hoped to be in the garment business, Piyu was thinking of moving into counseling.

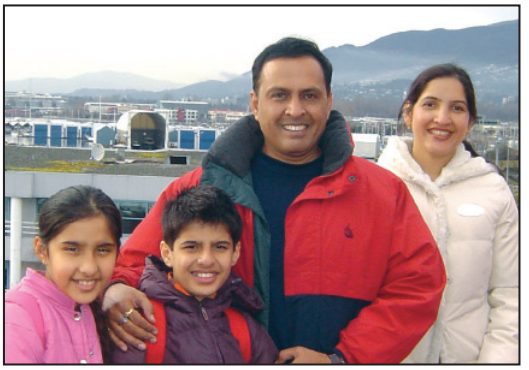

Today, Vishy has done a lot of spadework for his garment import business. "With the help of Scotia Bank, I have been able to open a business account and seek advice from their senior trade officer, International trade. Limei Zhou at Scotia Bank's downtown regional office has been wonderful and I have made strong in-roads to the local buyer's base. Although, due to recession and other factors things are slow I remain positive" says Vishy.

Piyu is finally in a profession where she wanted to be. She is a program counselor with PICS, a multicultural immigrants serving agency. She loves her job since it was always her focus to either teach in Canada or help other immigrants in whatever way she could.

"As new immigrants, there are so many experiences we have had that I feel we can help guide other new immigrants."

"And finally, I have a car; our first vehicle in Canada! The time will come when we will purchase our first home in Canada and I know where I will go for help and guidance," says Vishy, "Scotiabank!"

The award comes with prizes worth $40,000.

Trailer Park Boys tapped for Telefilm prize

AWARD They've come a long way from the trailer park.

The foul-mouthed Trailer Park Boys raked in the most money at the English-Canadian box office last year with The Trailer Park Boys: Countdown to Liquor Day.

Telefilm says the comedy grossed $2.9 million in 2009, and has earned the film's director and writers Telefilm's inaugural Golden Box Office Award.

The award will be handed out on Friday in Halifax.

A cash prize of $40,000 will be split between director and co-writer Mike Clattenburg and co-writers Timm Hannebohm, John Paul Tremblay (who played Julian), Robb Wells (Ricky), and Mike Smith (Bubbles).

Clattenburg and Hannebohm are among those expected to accept the prize at a ceremony to be held at a Halifax autobody shop on Friday.

Much of the film was set at an autobody shop that Julian opens after he gets out of jail.

The equivalent award in the French-language market was presented to De pere en flic in March, after it grossed $10.5 million.

So far, the sci-fi horror Splice, starring Sarah Polley and Adrien Brody, is a serious contender for next year's prize after already surpassing the $1-million mark.

More enrol for second degree: Study

ALY THOMSON
for Metro Halifax

Undergraduate students may want to start planning for that second degree.

A report commissioned by the Maritime Provinces Higher Education Commission said 70 per cent of Maritime university graduates who earned their first degree in 2003 enrolled in a second education program within five years.

"I think that is supporting the fact that one degree is no longer enough," Duguay told reporters at a press conference yesterday.

The report said most graduates need more education for employment reasons, and more than 80 per cent of liberal arts degree holders go for further study.

Graduates are also suffering from debt, the report said. Nearly half of the 2003 graduates surveyed said they borrowed $30,000 or more to complete their degree. Five years later, 23 per cent still owed more than $30,000, while 28 per cent paid off the whole amount.

Elise Graham, chairperson for the Canadian Federation of Students-Nova Scotia, said in a release that this is the direct result of the province's high tuition fees.

"For 20 years students in Nova Scotia paid the highest fees in the country," said Graham.

"The only sure-fire way to reduce student debt is to invest in grants and reduce tuition fees."

Although some are suffering from financial woes, the report said most graduates were satisfied with their education.

Five years after graduation, 80 per cent said their university education was worth the time invested, and 70 per cent said it was worth the financial investment, said Duguay.

The report also said the brain drain remains about the same compared to the 1999 study. The net retention of graduates five years after completion of their first degree is 79 per cent in Nova Scotia, up five percentage points.

Survey

- The Maritime Higher Education Commissioned surveyed 1,061 graduates from across the Maritime provinces. The report has a margin of error of 1.6.

Province announces cash for green buildings

ALEX BOUTILIER
for Metro Halifax

FUNDING Nova Scotia's provincial government announced $1.55 million in new funding to green government buildings in the province yesterday.

The funding announcement was made at a press conference by Transportation and Infrastructure Renewal Minister Bill Estabrooks.

The additional funding brings the government's two-year total up to $10.7 million.

The funds will be used for energy audits, preparation of designs, purchase and installation equipment, and retrofitting measures, said Estabrooks.

"By making our buildings greener today, we are ensuring the health and well-being of generations to come."

The announcement came at the end of a press conference held to tout government's progress on the Environmental Goals and Sustainable Prosperity Act legislation from 2007, which set out environmental and economic targets for the province.

"This act reflects a modern-day understanding that what's good for the environment is good for the economy," said Environment Minister Sterling Belliveau.

"The third annual report we are releasing today shows we are meeting targets and moving steadily toward that vision."

An official on the province's Round Table on the Environment and Sustainable Prosperity said that while the province still has a long way to go on certain issues, the progress made on this one has been encouraging.

Mi'kmaq Grand Chief's baptism to be re-enacted

A significant event in Canadian aboriginal history was to be marked today with a colourful re-enactment of the baptism 400 years ago of Mi'kmaq Grand Chief Henri Membertou. Membertou and 20 members of his family were among the first natives in the New World to accept Christianity and the Roman Catholic Church. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Too close for comfort? Spy chief stuns Ottawa

CSIS Canada's top spy briskly backtracked from his suggestion that he's working to oust politicians under the influence of foreign governments.

It was the latest twist in a cloak-and-dagger drama that confused spy-watchers and elicited a terse response from the Prime Minister's Office.

Dick Fadden, director of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service, said in an interview with CBC-TV Tuesday that he was in the process of warning at least two provinces, through the Privy Council Office, that members of their cabinets are under the influence of foreign governments.

He declined to name the elected officials or countries involved, but when asked whether China was one of them Fadden said recent media reports on China's economic espionage in Canada were not "entirely incorrect."

Liberal public safety critic Mark Holland said the comments had "profound security implications."

But Fadden backpedalled yesterday.

He said he had "not apprised the Privy Council Office of the cases ... mentioned in the interview on CBC."

"At this point, CSIS has not deemed the cases to be of sufficient concern to bring them to the attention of provincial authorities," he added.

Meanwhile, Ontario Premier Dalton McGuinty said Canadians are owed more information the CSIS chief's startling statements .

Fadden promised to alert the federal government so it could tell the relevant provincial governments about the ministers involved, but no one has told Ontario anything, said McGuinty.

"We have not been contacted, so that means from our perspective no news is good news," he said.

McGuinty noted the TV interview was taped weeks ago and said CSIS must elaborate on the allegations.

"I think, in fairness, what Canadians are owed right now is more information," said McGuinty.

"If there are some real concerns, let's find out exactly what those are and let's find a way to address them." THE CANADIAN PRESS

News in brief

THE EARTH MOVED A magnitude 5.0 earthquake yesterday left much of central Canada wondering what in the world was going on. The temblor was pinpointed about 60 kilometres north of Ottawa and about 18 kilometres under the surface of the earth. The Geological Survey of Canada said people across New York, Vermont, Michigan and Illinois also reported it.

Last words of a calm pilot

DISASTER "We are not able to climb."

They are the eerily calm last words of the captain piloting a small plane that crashed early yesterday morning just moments after takeoff from Quebec City's airport, killing seven.

Two crew members and five passengers were aboard the Beechcraft King Air twin-turboprop belonging to Aéropro Group, authorities confirmed.

The plane went down in a rural area about two kilometres north of the end of the runway at Jean Lesage Airport.

The pilot radioed the tower that the right-side engine in the plane had failed and he was going to try to head back to the airport. He asked for emergency services to respond.

"Quebec tower, Aéropro 201 (here), we have a right engine problem, we're going to return for landing," the pilot told the tower.

"Roger," the controller responded, and asked if the pilot needed emergency services.

"Affirmative, we are unable to climb," the pilot answered.

Administration accused of ignoring drilling ban

OFFSHORE DRILLING Several companies say the Obama administration is ignoring a judge's decision to strike down a six-month ban on deepwater drilling.

After the Deepwater Horizon exploded in the Gulf of Mexico in April, the Interior Department halted approval of any new permits for deepwater projects and suspended drilling on 33 exploratory wells.

U.S. District Judge Martin Feldman overturned that ban Tuesday. Hours later, Interior Secretary Ken Salazar said he would impose a new moratorium.

FRANK ROSS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oil gusher uncapped again

Engineers had to completely uncap the broken well spewing oil into the Gulf of Mexico yesterday after an undersea robot bumped into machinery being used to collect the spilled fuel. Hundreds of thousands of gallons more poured into the water as crews scrambled to replace a critical component.

The mishap left nothing to stem the flow of oil at its source. A camera recording the well showed huge clouds of black fluid coming out of the sea floor. It was not clear how long workers would need to replace the cap, which took weeks to install.

Bob Dudley, the managing director of BP who is taking over the spill response, said engineers expected to replace the cap in less than a day.

"It's a disruption, and the crew again did exactly the right thing because they were concerned about safety," he said.

"It's a setback, and now we will go back into operation and show how this technology can work."

Without the cap, the only means of collecting the oil was a ship at the surface that is sucking up oil and burning it.

The problem, yet another in the nine-week effort to stop the gusher, came as thick pools of oil washed up on Pensacola Beach in Florida, and the Obama administration sought to resurrect a six-month moratorium on deepwater drilling.

Thick pools of oil washed up along miles of national park and Pensacola Beach shoreline as health advisories against swimming and fishing in the once-pristine waters were extended for 53 kilometres east from the Alabama/Florida border.

Obama removes general over remarks

U.S. President Barack Obama sacked his loose-lipped Afghanistan commander yesterday, a seismic shift for the military order in wartime, and chose the familiar, admired — and tightly disciplined — Gen. David Petraeus to replace him. Petraeus, architect of the Iraq war turnaround, was once again to take hands-on leadership of a troubled war effort.

Obama said bluntly that Gen. Stanley McChrystal's scornful remarks about administration officials represent conduct that "undermines the civilian control of the military that is at the core of our democratic system."

He fired the commander after summoning him from Afghanistan for a face-to-face meeting in the Oval Office and named Petraeus, the Central Command chief who was McChrystal's direct boss, to step in.

In a statement expressing praise for McChrystal, Obama said he did not make the decision over any disagreement in policy or "out of any sense of personal insult." Flanked by Vice-President Joe Biden, Defence Secretary Robert Gates and Adm. Mike Mullen, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, he said: "War is bigger than any one man or woman, whether a private, a general, or a president."

"I welcome debate among my team, but I won't tolerate division," Obama said. The announcement came as June became the deadliest month for the U.S.-dominated international coalition in Afghanistan.

G8 expected to tackle rising African drug trafficking

NARCOTICS The leaders of the world's eight industrialized economies are expected to address an emerging security threat as the global narco-trafficking business shifts toward new drugs and markets via a new hot spot: West Africa.

The United Nations released a report yesterday showing West Africa is exploding as a major transshipment point for funnelling cocaine to Europe from central and South America.

The World Drug Report 2010, released in Washington by the UN Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), lends urgency to an issue that was discussed by G8 foreign ministers in March and has been placed on the security agenda of the summit.

The G8 leaders will sit down tomorrow afternoon with leaders from Africa, the Caribbean and Colombia to explore ways to boost the capacity of West African governments to combat the problem.

In Senegal's capital, Dakar, the construction of many sprawling new luxury villas is suspected to be linked to money-laundering efforts of major drug dealers. Other countries targeted by drug traffickers are Guinea-Bissau, Guinea Conakry, Sierra Leone, Togo, Mali, Ghana, Nigeria and Liberia.

The UN report shows drug use has "stabilized" in the developed world, but there are signs of an increase in drug use in developing countries.

Canadian officials, briefing reporters on the Governor General's recent African trip, said in the last 18 months drug trafficking has exploded in the region, with much of the drug trade from Venezuela and Colombia moving into Europe via West Africa.

A little luck can go a long way

Relating

Goodbye columns are a bit self-indulgent, but I figured you might as well hear it from me: This is it for us — this is my last Relating column.

I hope this news doesn't bring about sadness (or too much gladness, either!)

I enjoyed our little bi-weekly thing. Thanks for reading me and my gorgeous, brilliant co-columnists, Andrea Woo and Sofi Papamarko. We hope it was good for you, too.

I'll admit this column felt like a strange bit of casting for me from the outset. As I said right off the top, the intricacies of relationships have always escaped my understanding. My good ones have felt a lot like luck, and nothing I wrote on the subject should be construed as advice — or even a clue.

I probably should have included that disclaimer on every column thereafter. My sincere apologies go out to anyone who tried to navigate a real-life relationship using this column as a chart.

I was reminded of just how tricky advice of this sort can be, how any given theory on relationships might not be any truer than its obverse, as I talked to a good friend the other day. He's single and trying to shake this stubborn condition with the help of eHarmony.

As a result, he's been through a lengthy series of one-off dates that have generally gone nowhere, but I assured him he was probably on the right track. Everyone he meets through the online service, I reasoned, has at least decided, like him, that she's serious enough about finding someone to take the step of registering and setting up dates. They're trying, you're trying and it makes sense to keep trying, right? It seemed self-evident.

But maybe, said my friend, when you stop looking is when you're finally, paradoxically, more likely to find someone. That sounded right, too, because it seems to happen quite a bit.

It's happened to me. I got lucky out of the blue. Kathryn made me lucky. So if I have occasionally come up a little short on specific wisdom to impart, I hope some of my luck has at least rubbed off on you. We all need it sometimes.

Steve Collins offers his best guesses on relationships for Metro every two weeks.

Debunking some popular feminist myths

FourthWave

After a year and a half of sharing my views (hopefully ideas that show feminism isn't just a punchline), this is my last column. I'd like to leave you with some parting thoughts. When I tell people I'm feminist, I usually get one of these reactions. I hope these myth-busters help change the conversation:

Myth No. 1: Feminists are just hairy-armpitted, lesbian, spinster hags.

Some of us don't shave regularly, but that's because it's such a damn chore! But seriously, feminists work hard to shine a light on the many issues women face. When people dismiss our ideas, focusing instead on appearance or sexual orientation, it just proves prejudices still exist!

Myth No. 2: Equality has been achieved.

Canadian women have parallel lives: They make up the majority of the workforce and post-secondary enrolment, yet still earn less, are less likely to be managers, and do the majority of housework. The quality of life among low-income and aboriginal populations is lower than the average; in Nunavut, the child mortality rate is four times the Canadian average. Does that sound like equality to you?

Myth No. 3: Feminists hate men and want to put them down.

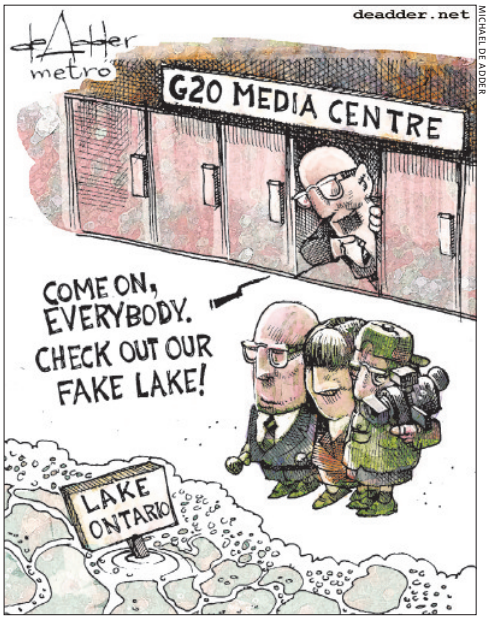

No one is looking to rule over men, we're just looking out for the little guys (in a manner of speaking), whether it's racism, homophobia, classism, or even patriarchy. Any guy who has been expected to be a provider, a leader or play sports knows how burdening social expectations can be. A feminist who puts down someone else is no feminist.

Myth No. 4: Modern feminism is so trivial.

That's only if you consider feminism to be the domain of the Western world. Consider that in the developing world, a woman dies every minute either in pregnancy or in childbirth, and 90 per cent of these deaths are preventable; women are trafficked into the sex trade; women in many parts of the world have no access to health care, education or jobs. As long as these stories exist, there is always a woman who needs a helping hand.

It's been a good run, and thanks for listening. Stay in touch at caniceleung.com.

Canice Leung is a former editor of Ryerson University feminist magazine McClung's, copy editor at Metro, ardent feminist and loudmouth.

Down with dirty coal

Dated plants close unless rule met: policy

The federal government is adopting tough new regulations aimed at cleaning up coal-fired electricity generation.

"Most of Canada's coal-burning electricity plants are both dated and dirty," Environment Minister Jim Prentice said yesterday.

"We have a responsibility as a country to reduce our carbon emissions."

The proposed regulations will impose stringent performance standards on new coal-burning power plants, as well as older ones that are looking to extend their operating lives.

"Our regulation will be very clear: when each coal-burning unit reaches the end of its economic life, it will have to meet the new standards or close down — no trading, no offsets, no credits," said Prentice.

Established after consultations with industry and the provinces, the standard will be based on parity with the emissions performance of high-efficiency natural-gas generation.

It aims to promote the replacement of older coal-fired units and encourage investment in cleaner technologies, as well as carbon capture and storage.

Prentice said it will represent an improvement in emissions of about 60 per cent per gigawatt hour generated. Nineteen of the 33 oldest units do not currently meet the proposed new standards, Prentice added. Units that incorporate carbon capture and storage will be exempt from the standards until 2025.

In 2007, hydroelectric power produced about 59 per cent of Canada's total electrical power generation followed by fossil fuels — coal, oil and natural gas — at 25 per cent, nuclear energy at 15 per cent, and other sources such as wind and bioenergy accounting for the remaining one per cent.

Under its Copenhagen Accord commitments, Canada aims to reduce greenhouse-gas emissions by 17 per cent below 2005 levels by 2020.

THE CANADIAN PRESS

13% The total greenhouse-gas emissions that come from coal-burning electricity-generation units in Canada. There are 51 of them — and 33 will come to the end of their economic lives by 2025.

Proposal finds early support

ENERGY The government says regulating coal-fired electricity generation will reduce greenhouse-gas emissions, improve air quality and provide regulatory certainty for industry.

Marlo Raynolds, executive director of the Pembina Institute — a sustainable-energy think-tank — welcomed the announcement, but cautioned key details of the proposal need to be strengthened.

TransAlta Corp. said it supports the need to lower power-generation emissions. The new policies are to come into effect July 1, 2015.

Shopping pace slower in April: StatsCan

RETAIL Canadian shoppers' reluctance to open their wallets in April points towards slower economic growth for the rest of the year, but not the start of a serious downward trend in consumer spending, economists say.

"We usually look beyond the one-month dip, we look at the longer term trend and conditions are still present for Canadian consumers to continue to spend," said CIBC economist Krishen Rangasamy.

Retail sales decreased to $36.2 billion in April, down two per cent from the previous month after a gain of 2.2 per cent in March from February, according to Statistics Canada figures released yesterday.

Retail sales are still up compared with the first four months of 2009, when Canada was in the grips of a major recession. "We saw a weather-induced shopping spree in March. We saw clothing just rise significantly and it was inevitable you were going to see a decline (in April) because Canadians had brought forward a lot of their purchases of clothing and shoes and all those seasonal items," Rangasamy said.

The only subsector to register a gain was electronics and appliance stores.

Taylor indicted on rape charges

Pro football Hall of Famer Lawrence Taylor was indicted yesterday by a suburban New York grand jury on charges of third-degree rape and patronizing a prostitute. The indictment follows his May 6 arrest at a Holiday Inn in Ramapo, N.Y., where prosecutors say he paid a 16-year-old girl $300 to have sex with him. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Lakers' Jackson set to retire?

Phil Jackson thinks he is just about ready to walk away from his unparalleled NBA coaching career. The Los Angeles Lakers are all hoping he will change his mind in the next week. The 11-time NBA champion coach said yesterday he is leaning toward retirement. After a full season of speculation on his health and future, Jackson will wait for the results of another battery of medical tests before informing Lakers owner Jerry Buss of his final decision late next week. Welcome to the club

Sedin edges Crosby, Ovechkin for Hart Trophy

It's a good thing Henrik Sedin doesn't mind sharing the spotlight.

The Vancouver Canucks forward capped a breakthrough season by winning the Hart Trophy at the NHL's awards show last night, but had to watch as Alex Ovechkin accepted the Ted Lindsay Award.

They'll go down as co-MVPs — the Hart is voted on by the media, while the Lindsay is selected by the players.

"I don't mind at all," said Sedin. "When they called my name for the Hart, it was surreal."

The humble Swede has spoken repeatedly about how he never fashioned himself as one of the elite players, but there he was accepting the final award of the evening after a season where he led the league in scoring with 112 points.

He edged Ovechkin and Pittsburgh Penguins star Sidney Crosby for the Hart.

Meanwhile, a couple of Buffalo Sabres teammates went home happy.

Ryan Miller won the Vezina Trophy as the NHL's top goaltender while defenceman Tyler Myers took the Calder Trophy as the league's top rookie.

The party continued for Chicago Blackhawks defenceman Duncan Keith, who added even more hardware to his collection — winning the Norris Trophy as the league's top blue-liner.

His season also included an Olympic gold medal and the Stanley Cup.

Blue Jays on wrong end of tight pitcher's duel

MLB RESULTS

Cardinals 1 Blue Jays 0

MLB In trouble early on, Ricky Romero was able to keep things from slipping away for the Toronto Blue Jays. In trouble with two outs in the ninth, Kevin Gregg was not.

A brisk and entertaining pitcher's duel was decided in the ninth inning last night, when the Toronto closer surrendered a two-out RBI single to the surging Matt Holliday in a 1-0 interleague loss to the St. Louis Cardinals.

Randy Winn singled with one out in the ninth and Felipe Lopez moved him to third with a two-out base hit up the middle. Up came Holliday, who deposited a 3-2 slider from Gregg (0-3) into left field to break the scoreless tie.

Braced for a big day

As many as four local names could be called at NHL draft

MATTHEW WUEST
matthew.wuest@metronews.ca

This weekend's NHL entry draft should be worth keeping an eye on for local hockey fans.

Four prospects with Halifax ties are candidates to be selected in the seven-round event on Friday and Saturday in Los Angeles.

Florida Panthers scout Paul Gallagher of Cole Harbour gave Metro a rundown of local players to watch for.

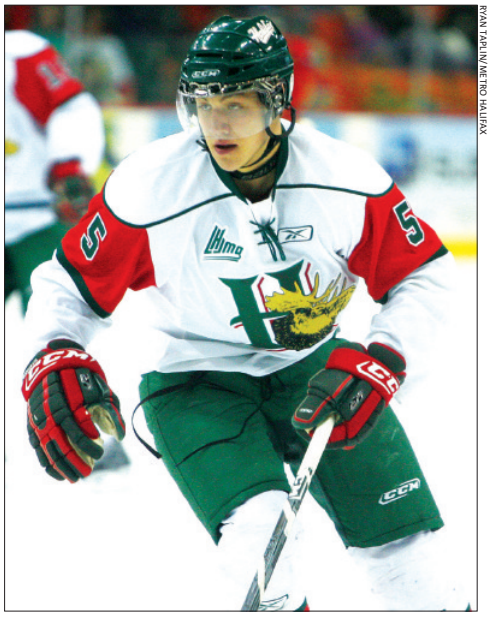

G Mathieu Corbeil, Halifax Mooseheads

His stats have been ugly playing on one of the worst junior teams in the country. But his gigantic six-foot-six frame is impressive and some scouting services have him ranked as high as early in the second round.

Most consider him a big project who could deliver big rewards.

"He showed great improvement in the second half," Gallagher said. "His quickness, strength and work ethic have to come up to another level for him to (realize his) potential."

D Konrad Abeltshauser, Halifax Mooseheads

RYAN TAPLIN/METRO HALIFAX

Halifax Mooseheads defenceman Sawyer Hannay has a chance at being selected in this weekend's NHL entry draft in Los Angeles.

The six-foot-three Abeltshauser came over from Germany and stepped smoothly into the QMJHL at age 17. He logged 25 minutes a night while collecting 25 points in 48 games.

"He's a very good passer with good vision and he moves the puck well," Gallagher said. "On the power play, he gets the shot on net. He's adapted to the North American game really well."

Abeltshauser is ranked as high as the second round and as low as the last round.

LW Stephen MacAulay, Cole Harbour/Saint John Sea Dogs

The six-foot-two 180-pounder was a key cog on the checking line of one of the country's top teams. He projects as an NHL role player who can kill penalties.

"He's a defensive guy who brings good work ethic," Gallagher said. "He gives you a good effort most nights."

MacAulay will receive late-round consideration.

D Sawyer Hannay, Halifax Mooseheads

The six-foot-four 190-pounder was among the QMJHL's fighting and penalty minute leaders at age 17. He has been compared to New Jersey Devils defender Colin White, although his foot-speed needs work.

"He knows his role," Gallagher said. "He makes a good first pass and anybody who takes advantage of one of his teammates has to deal with him."

He'll be considered for selection in the later rounds.

Blackhawks send Byfuglien to Thrashers: Report

NHL A person familiar with the negotiations says the Blackhawks and Thrashers are awaiting NHL approval on a multiplayer blockbuster trade that would send Dustin Byfuglien, Brent Sopel and Ben Eager to Atlanta from Stanley Cup champion Chicago.

The person spoke to The Associated Press on condition of anonymity because the trade has not received final approval from the league.

Byfuglien

Chicago also would send a prospect to Atlanta and acquire first- and second-round picks in this week's NHL draft as well as forward Marty Reasoner and prospect Jeremy Morin. The trade helps to clear salary cap space for the Blackhawks and provides more experience for the Thrashers, who have reached the playoffs only once. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dal expects decision from CIS soon

matthew.wuest@metronews.ca

The Dalhousie Tigers should find out within a week whether they've won the right to host the 2013 and 2014 University Cups.

Canadian Interuniversity Sport's bid selection committee is reviewing proposals from schools hoping to host the annual men's hockey championship, and Dalhousie is among six possibilities.

Alberta, Calgary, Regina, Saskatchewan and Nipissing in North Bay, Ont., are the other schools bidding for the University Cup.

"It's probably a record," said CIS chief executive officer Marg McGregor last month. "With so many schools in the running, it ensures whoever does get it will have a quality event."

CIS spokesperson Michel Belanger said yesterday the successful bids are expected to be announced by next Wednesday.

The 2011 and 2012 University Cups will be held at the University of New Brunswick in Fredericton. UNB edged out Dalhousie in the last bid process.

Carleton University in Ottawa is also expected to be rubber-stamped as the successful bidder for the 2013 and 2014 Final 8 men's basketball championship. Atlantic University Sport is hosting the even in 2011 and 2012 but didn't apply this time around, leaving Carleton — the host from 2008 to 2010 — as the lone bidder.

Sports in brief

ARGOS Danny Brannagan, Canadian university football's career passing leader, will be among the Toronto Argonauts' final cuts when they reduce their training camp roster to 46 players by 3 p.m. today.

NHL NHL teams are going to have more money to spend on players next season. The league's salary cap has been bumped to $59.4 million US, the fifth straight time the number has increased since being introduced coming out of the 2004-05 lockout. The minimum a team can spend — known as the salary floor — will be $43.4 million.

MLB Fredi Gonzalez was fired as manager of the Florida Marlins yesterday, the team owner saying, "We can do better and be better." Edwin Rodriguez, who has spent the past 1½ seasons as manager of triple-A New Orleans, takes over as manager on an interim basis. METRO NEWS SERVICES

England reached the round of 16 at the World Cup yesterday, beating Slovenia 1-0 in the team's final Group C match and knocking the Slovenes out of the tournament.

Jermain Defoe turned home James Milner's cross from five yards with a right-foot volley in the 23rd minute to give England five points in the group. Slovenia finished with four but failed to advance because the United States beat Algeria 1-0 and won the group.

"The performance of the team was really, really good," England coach Fabio Capello said. "We created a lot of chances to score a second goal, but we didn't score. It is possible to draw or lose the game for nothing in the final minute."

Showing much better form after its dismal 0-0 draw with Algeria, when the team was booed off the field, England looked much more like the team that headed into the tournament in South Africa with a chance of winning the title.

"This team, this spirit, played together and tried together," said Capello, who went onto the field after the game and hugged several of his players.

"I am really happy because I found the team I know. We now go forward. We can play against all the teams because the mind is now free."

Slovenia led the Group C standings before kickoff, but was eliminated by a late American goal against Algeria.

"This is indescribable, but this is sport," Slovenia coach Matjaz Kek said. "I can only hope our sport will be able to gain from this defeat. Our (players) should be left alone for a while as they are feeling very hard moments."

Landon Donovan scored a stunning goal in the first minute of injury time, advancing the United States to the second round at the World Cup with a 1-0 win over Algeria.

With the U.S. perhaps three minutes from elimination yesterday, Donovan brought the ball upfield on a counterattack and Jozy Altidore's shot on the breakaway was tipped by Clint Dempsey into goalkeeper Rais Bolihi. The rebound went to Donovan, who kicked it in from about eight yards for one of the biggest goals in U.S. soccer history.

Stuck in the middle

Precollections are becoming increasingly more important

Burberry Prorsum

KENYA HUNT
Metro World News

What exactly is a pre-collection anyway?

Consider them the more low-key, real-life cousins to the runway extravaganzas you see photos of during the fashion weeks. Increasingly big sellers in stores, pre-collections are usually more wearable.

While the clothes you see on a prêt-a-porter catwalk often look more appropriate for a fantastical magazine shoot than the street, the pre-collections are created to work in a woman's every wardrobe. And they're often shown in modest presentations in showrooms instead of big productions. (Though it's worth noting that more resort '11 collections were shown as runway shows this season than ever before).

They also give a hint at what direction a designer might go in for the prêt-a-porter season. For example, the military trend first surfaced in a Burberry Prorsum pre-fall collection.

Pictured above and right is a look at a few resort '11 standouts.

According to the experts

• Helen David, womenswear, Harrods: "Pre-collections ensure that we always have new merchandise arriving on the floor," explains Helen David, the womenswear general merchandise manager at Harrods in London, England. "They allow us to continue to offer the full priced customer new merchandise during the sale period, which is imperative to being able to look after this customer all year round," she adds. David notes that pre-collections are great because they're also the most commercial delivery and sit on the sales floor at full price for the longest time. "So they drive the business while offering a great selection to the customer," she says.

Cruise, resort, pre-fall, pre-summer. Whatever you want to call them, the smaller pre-collections that fill the gap between fashion weeks are becoming more important to shoppers and retail stores alike. Left: Diane von Furstenberg.

Now this... is vintage

Homes in Style

JENNIFER BILL
for Metro Canada

Bring back the oldies by hopping on the vintage train.

Give classic decor items a new home by throwing touches of vintage style into your space, creating the feel of stepping back in time.

"When scouring flea markets and antique shops, look for pieces that speak to you," said Karen Kwinter, style editor-at-large at Canadian Living and Homemakers magazines. "Either they have an heirloom feeling or just feel like a treasure to you."

Kwinter says some of the most trendy ways to infuse classic style into a room are by using vintage suitcases stacked as a side table or vintage chairs either recovered, refinished or stripped — or a modern-shaped chair reupholstered with vintage fabric.

Boost the look of your yard with vintage garden furniture, left as is or repainted, throw some jungle fever into a room with vintage animal rugs — zebra prints are especially hot right now — or make a statement with a traditional chandelier.

Another way to add vintage into your decor is with world globes or framed vintage maps, or silver serving pieces, tea services or trays. Try lining your book shelf with vintage books or fill a wall or shelf with old paintings, either framed or unframed.

Mixing up old and current will give the feel of modern antiquity. Placing a vintage item among newer pieces will create a casual contrast while adding a sense of history and tradition — a vibrant-hued rotary phone or antique clock is always good for a surprise.

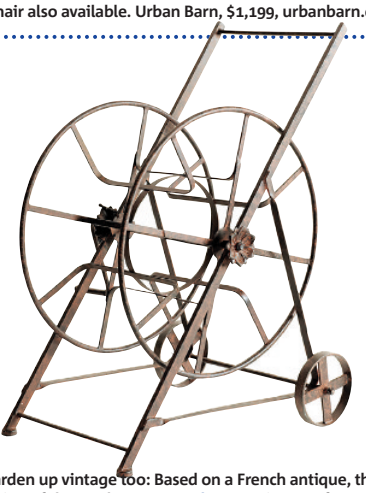

"Don't be afraid to mix it up," says Kwinter. "Vintage goes great with both modern and contemporary. Don't want to run around? Check out eBay, it's an amazing source for vintage finds."

Top: Moma Mia! The Moma Sofa in stunning silver has soft velvety fabric, rolled cushions and a button back, with solid wood frame. Moma chair also available. Urban Barn, $1,199, urbanbarn.ca.

The deco-inspired acrylic design of the Empire Table Lamp has an architectural flair, reminiscent of the famous Empire State Building. A clear base allows light to shine through to beautifully illuminate the room, with brightness controlled through a built-in trilight. Urban Barn, $199, urbanbarn.ca.

Do your garden up vintage too: Based on a French antique, the vintage design of the garden Hose Reel Wagon is great for storing and moving your extra hose around the yard. Crafted of powder-coated, moisture-resistant metal with antique rust finish, for a hose up to 200 feet long. Ballard Design, $199, ballarddesigns.com.

The Metals & Petals Vase has multifaceted mercury glass that takes on a copper or silver glow to illuminate woody stems and bare end tables. Anthropology, $24, anthropology.com.

A well-planned renovation

Here are some key things to think about before the sledgehammer arrives

DecorMoment

Karl Lohnes

metronews.ca/decormoment

Be sure to consider everything before you take the sledgehammer to the wall for a renovation.

Pre-thinking your renovation and answering a few questions before the sledgehammer arrives will help save time, money and most of all headaches. Here's just a few of my pointers to help you if you are about to take on a renovation in your space.

Kitchen:

Questions to ask yourself: Is the current layout working well? Is there anything missing from the current kitchen that you want (like a wall oven, built-in dishwasher or an island)? Are there any considerations to renovating like a busy family life, condo board restrictions or structural concerns? What is the best budget and timeframe for you?

Hidden costs: Re-routing pipes, old wiring that needs updating, floors that need strengthening, plumbing that needs upgrading. These are things that you only discover once the job had been started and walls/floors get opened up and exposed.

Designer tip: Keeping a simple design in mind for your kitchen will give it longevity. Here's two simple rules: Match the colour of the backsplash to the colour of cupboards you have chosen (creamy cabinets equals pale limestone or off-white backsplash tiles); match the tone/colouring of your countertop to the appliances (stainless steel appliances=medium to dark toned countertops).

Bedroom:

Questions to ask yourself: Is there enough closet/storage space? Is there a focal wall that will fit the bed and two ends tables comfortably? Do you want a television, stereo speakers or a computer wired in the bedroom?

Hidden costs: Outfitting existing closets to be more efficient, privacy treatments on windows, new lighting or audio/visual equipment.

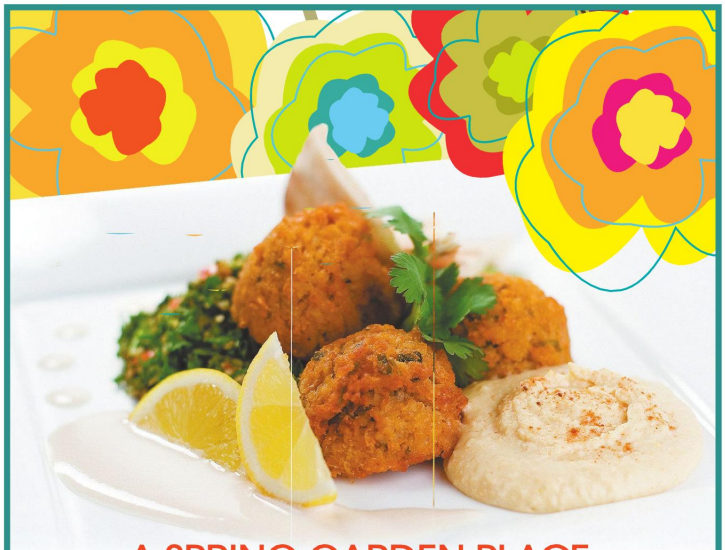

Designer tip: Are you a Cave or Cloud person? If you like to wake up in a dark room then you are a Cave person. Decorate your room with dark wood tones, richer wall and fabric colours and choose heavier draperies. If you are a Cloud person, then you need to wake up to some daylight streaming into the bedroom; decorate your room with lighter window treatments and lighter/brighter colours and tones.

The basement

- Questions to ask yourself: Is there sufficient height in the basement? Does the furnace, piping and duct work need to be re-routed in order to make better use of the space? Do you want to add a bathroom, sauna or kitchen in your basement?
- Hidden costs: Repairing wall structure, fixing hidden water damage, installing new furnace and windows.
- Designer tip: Basements often look dark and feel damp. Adding a heat source like a gas fireplace will add a sense of cosiness and enlarging the windows can add more light. By decorating with reflective materials such as glass and mirror you will bounce light around.

Karl Lohnes is passionate about good decor and wants to help you have a beautiful home; no matter what your budget or style.

Her leather pants, just-got-outta-bed hair and come-hither pout suggest she's taking a sharp turn to skankville. Don't panic. The danceclub stuff never gets too out of hand and by the fourth track Miley settles into a groove that undulates somewhere between Taylor Swift and Ke$ha. She's best when leaning toward the country side of things on tracks like Every Rose Has Its Thorn and Two More Lonely People. This CD will please loyal fans. It's hard to imagine her making any new ones yet, though.

Eminem

Album: Recovery
Label: Universal
Rating: ●●●

EMINEM WANTS TO apologize. His last two discs weren't great and he's sorry. "Them last two albums didn't count. Encore I was on drugs, Relapse I was flushing 'em out." While Recovery is definitely a step up, it's not a return to Slim Shady LP-like form. The problem may lie with his producers — Dr. Dre, who's helmed almost all of his music, was relegated to one song, while a roving cast of DJs did the rest. The record is uneven as a result, floating from aggressive to mundane and everything in between.

Sarah Harmer

Album: Oh Little Fire
Label: Universal
Rating: ●●●●

IT'S EASY TO forget that Sarah Harmer made a name for herself playing rock tunes in Weeping Tile. Her post-band career has been of the folk pop variety, and while that's served her well, it's nice to see her turn up the amps again on Oh Little Fire, her first record in five years. The disc still features her delicate voice and plenty of fragile, heartwarming songs, but rollicking pop tracks like the infectious Captive are a nice addition to her impressive oeuvre.

Miley Cyrus tries to shake her tween image on Can't be Tamed.

Stars

Album: The Five Ghosts
Label: Arts & Crafts
Rating: ●●●●

THE ATTRACTION OF Stars is the Canadian indie band's ability to blend late night horror lyrics into charming, almost sentimental, melodies. Chief songwriters Amy Milan and Torquil Campbell have never done it better than on their latest with songs like Dead Hearts and I Died So I Could Haunt You. Milan's little-girl vocals belie the shrouds floating by on the multi-banked synthesizers. And yet the sound never degenerates into '80s Goth. On The Five Ghosts, Stars take a step toward pop stardom.

There's nothing quite like sitting on the waterfront deck at Salty's on a sunny day watching the boats sail by. Not all the food is as impressive as the view, but it's still one of my summer favourites.

The Baked Crab Dip with Spinach and Artichoke ($15.95), served with crispy tortilla chips, has good flavour but, disappointingly is heavy on the salt.

Seafood Pasta ($16.95) — fettuccine with fresh-tasting scallops, shrimp, salmon and haddock — is mixed with a heavy and bland dill cream sauce. It could use a kick.

Potato Crusted Haddock ($16.95) is fresh and delicious, uniquely cooked with red skin potatoes baked over top. The accompanying tomato corn salsa is tasty, but the broccoli is way overdone.

The Fish and Chips ($13.95) and the Clams and Chips ($17.95) are both excellent. The fresh clams in particular are among the best I've had in a long while. The chips, while not home cut, arrive steaming hot and taste fine.

The service here is friendly and fast. And did I mention the view?

Radcliffe immune to Bieber fever

SAID ONE TEEN ICON ABOUT THE NEXT Daniel Radcliffe may not have heard of Justin Bieber until recently, but after his recent comments, he'll certainly be hearing from the pop star's fans. "I only heard Justin Bieber for the first time two weeks ago," the Harry Potter star tells MTV News. "I genuinely thought it was a woman singing. I'd never heard it before. Is it big in England yet? I'm so out of the loop when it comes to pop culture that I kind of don't even try anymore." He's not completely in the dark when it comes to music, though. "I know who Lady Gaga is," Radcliffe says. "I think she's kind of amazing. She's really got a voice. My God. Not my kind of music, particularly, but she can really sing."

Seinfeld blasts 'jerky' Lady Gaga

AND THUS CLAIMS HIS SPOT IN THE PANTHEON OF CROTCHETY OLD MEN. SEINFELD FANS: YOU'RE OFFICIALLY OVER THE HILL Lady Gaga does not have a fan in Jerry Seinfeld. "That woman is a jerk. I hate her," he tells WFAN during an on-air interview. The pop singer had been moved to Seinfeld's luxury box during a Mets game after she was giving photographers the middle finger from her field-level seats. "I can't believe they put her in my box, which I paid for," he says. "You give people the finger and you get upgraded? Is that the world we're living in now?"

Pattison: No secret Mormon messages in Twilight

THAT'S IT, BOBBY – DEFEND THAT PAYCHECK! Robert Pattinson insists that just because author Stephenie Meyer is Mormon, that doesn't mean the Twilight books and movies are filled with secret Mormon messages. "I think people make up all these Mormon references just so they can publish Twilight articles in respectable publications like the New York Times," the actor tells Entertainment Weekly. "Even Stephenie said it doesn't mean any of that. It is based on a dream."

Mel takes up hypnosis

IT'S THE ONLY WAY HE CAN STILL CONVINCE WORLD HE'S A STAR Mel Gibson has apparently picked up a new skill, though it's not clear how he plans to use it. The actor and director recently took a private crash-course in hypnotism with Rick Collingwood, an Australian expert. "Mel's a natural. He's got the look and the patter — as well as piercing blue eyes. He's going to be a great hypnotist," Collingwood says, according to Popcrunch. "I was with him for 10 days teaching him the technique. He is very, very interested in it. He didn't say he wanted to learn it for a specific reason. He was just curious."

Metro Recipe of the Day

Grilled Chicken with White BBQ Sauce

Recipe Developed by Paula Bowman

PREP TIME: 10 MINUTES
COOK TIME: 15 MINUTES

INGREDIENTS:

1 cup plain Greek style yogurt
1/4 cup olive oil
2 tbsp cider vinegar
2 tbsp honey
2 tbsp prepared horseradish
1 1/2 tsp salt, plus more for chicken
1/2 tsp finely ground black pepper, plus more for chicken
1/2 tsp cayenne
1 1/2 lb chicken drumsticks, boneless thighs or breasts

METHOD:

1. Preheat a grill to medium-high.
2. In a bowl, combine yogurt, 1 tablespoon olive oil, cider vinegar, honey, horseradish, salt, black pepper and ¼ teaspoon cayenne and stir until blended. Measure ½ cup of yogurt mixture and set aside for garnish.
3. In a small bowl, combine 2 tablespoons olive oil and ¼ teaspoon cayenne and stir well. Bush oil mixture on chicken pieces and season with salt and pepper. Place chicken on hot grill and cook, turning often and basting with olive oil mixture until cooked through. Chicken breasts and boneless thighs will be about 5 to 8 minutes per side, drumsticks will be about 14 to 16 minutes. During the last 6 minutes of cooking, baste chicken with remaining ½ cup yogurt mixture and discard any that remains after chicken is finished. Cover chicken with tinfoil and let rest until ready to serve.

ARIES
MARCH 21-APRIL 20
You may be under a great deal of pressure but you must get the work-play balance right or pressure will lead to stress and stress will lead to failure.

TAURUS
APRIL 21-MAY 21
You've had some great ideas of late but you still need to go back and check that you have not missed anything important or made any miscalculations.

GEMINI
MAY 22-JUNE 21
Something you have always accepted as true, because the experts told you so, will be revealed as a hoax.

CANCER
JUNE 22-JULY 22
Although you give others the impression that you are super confident you actually worry a lot and that is something you need to come to terms with.

LEO
JULY 23-AUG 23
You may be having second thoughts about the direction your life is taking but it is too late to turn back.

VIRGO
AUG 24-SEPT 22
You may be a little confused by all the changes taking place in your life but that's no bad thing. Sometimes you think too much.

LIBRA
SEPT 23-OCT 23
You rather defensive at the moment, but overall life is still good and will get even better over the next few weeks. Stop worrying and start living.

SCORPIO
OCT 24-NOV 22
Chances are you will find yourself at odds with what the rest of the world seems to believe, but you are not the sort to change your opinions to suit others.

SAGITTARIUS
NOV 23-DEC 21
You may think you need to get busy and get everything finished in one mad rush, but you're wrong. Focus on one thing at a time.

CAPRICORN
DEC 22-JAN 20
You will find it difficult to keep your doubts at bay today. But are they really your doubts, or are they other people's doubts you've picked up on?

AQUARIUS
JAN 21-FEB 18
You don't change your ways easily, if at all. Today, however, you will need to change the way you deal with someone you work with.

PISCES
FEB 19-MARCH 20
There is someone you would be wise to avoid today. You know who they are and you know why their company is toxic.

This day in history

1497: John Cabot lands in North America at Newfoundland; the first European exploration of the region since the Vikings.
1880: First performance of O Canada, the song that would become the national anthem of Canada, at the Congrès national des Canadiens-Français.
1901: First exhibition of Pablo Picasso's work opens.
1918: First airmail service in Canada from Montreal to Toronto.
1922: The American Professional Football Association formally changed its name to the National Football League.
